

Duplex communications: duplex communication means that both ends of the communication can send and receive signals at the same time