

Local variable: defined inside a function are called local variables.

Global variable: A variable whose scope extends to all the functions is called a global variable.